General Restrictions

- A maximum of TWO economics transfer credit courses will be accepted toward the major (A.B. or B.S.). This applies to courses taken in the United States and to study abroad courses. One exception is the London School of Economics full-year (fall & spring) program, from which a maximum of FOUR courses may be counted toward the major.
- ACES enforces prerequisites for many ECON courses.

*Certain independent studies and honors seminars may be used to satisfy the finance electives requirement, but they need advance approval from the director of undergraduate studies.
